Dear Walter,

My mother has sent me information about your class concerning the moral issue involved in the decision to take a human life. She is quite a fan of yours here now. She really thinks you are "terrific", to use her word. I agree with her. My year with you continues to unfold like a pot of Elijah's oil. My diploma in Religion Studies is displayed prominently in my office. You'd be surprised how people first notice Ramie's signature, then proceed to religion.

Right now I am rebuilding my life. Two wonderful, idealistic lawyers, old balls like myself, bought an old (#37) building with me, in a depressed, decaying little town. One of the lawyers is a quadriplegic friend. We live and work together. It is a four story building on the main corner of town. We live with our wives in apartments above and work below. The building is partially accessible (office floor). Ken, the quadriplegic, lives with his wife elsewhere. We have a general practice and a specialty in disability law. My long term career goals are in education law. The Church-State/government control issues in education really call me.

Have you read Stephen Aron's book? I mentioned it before: COMPPELLING BELIEF.

I would really be interested in your impressions of that book.

Your friend,

David

P.S. Please give my greetings to Raimundo Paniza.
